Sometime I wonder if the world has enough water bottles, then I discover that Italian company Bugatti with a flair for design, creates one that is that much more pleasing to the eye. The new thermal stainless steel "B Bottles" will come in single wall and double wall construction. The bottle has been designed such that no plastic comes in contact with the water. The mouth of the bottle has a wide opening, so ice cubes can be added. They even have created accessories to go with the bottles such as an infusion kit and sport lid.

Blue is still a hot color in tabletop, and metallics are also in demand. Bugatti has put the two together to create a beautiful style that they call "Melodia". The 18/10 stainless steel pattern has an acrylic handle and is available in chrome or gold plate.
